If You Have a Home with Zonolite Loose-Fill Attic Insulation

Your Rights May Be Affected by the W. R. Grace Bankruptcy

W. R. Grace, its predecessors, subsidiaries, and other related entities ("Grace") have filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. All individuals and entities with claims against Grace for Asbestos Property Damage (including commercial, residential or public buildings), or claims related to Zonolite Loose-Fill Attic Insulation, must file these claims on or before Month, Date 2002.

Grace Vermiculite Products

Grace mined, produced and marketed vermiculite products, some of which may have contained naturally occurring asbestos. The products were sold to the building construction, agricultural/horticultural and consumer markets. These products included Zonolite plasters and ceiling textures, Monokote Fireproofing, Zonolite Concrete Roof Decks and Zonolite Attic and Masonry Insulation.

Zonolite Attic Insulation is a loose-fill, non-roll vermiculite home attic insulation. It was sold from the 1920/1930s to 1984. Zonolite may have a glittery granular appearance. The granules are shaped like a small nugget and expanded like an accordion and may have a silvery, gold translucent or brownish cast. After years in the attic, however, the granules may darken to black or gray. Zonolite may be found underneath subsequently installed insulation of other types such as rolled fiberglass insulation.

Grace Asbestos-Containing Products

Grace produced and marketed vermiculite products containing added asbestos for use primarily in commercial, public and high-rise residential buildings. These products included ceiling and wall finishes, plasters, and cements. In addition, from 1959 to 1973, Grace marketed Mono-Kote 3 (MK-3), an asbestos-containing, wet, spray-on fireproofing plaster used to provide fire protection for the enclosed steel beams of such buildings.

Asbestos Property Damage Claims

Asbestos Property Damage Claims include, among other claims, the cost of removal, the diminution of property value or economic loss, etc., caused by asbestos in products manufactured by Grace or from vermiculite mined, milled, or processed by Grace. You must also file a claim if you previously entered into a settlement agreement with Grace but have not been fully paid.

Zonolite Loose-Fill Attic Insulation Claims
